Hancock P&H to advertise for Stennis management agency

The resident manager of Global Associates, current operators of Stennis International Airport, said Wednesday the company would definitely submit its own bid for continued management services at Stennis International Airport.

Global manager Glen Vaughan Wednesday confirmed his company's intent in regards to the future of the county air facility.

"We have been operating the airport for the past 21 months and have enjoyed the association," Vaughan said.

Wilson Webre, director of Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission, requested and received permission from County supervisors Monday to advertise for the new airport promotional arrangement.

"We think it is in the best interests of the public that Stennis International Airport be put on a profit making basis," Webre said, adding, "it is the opinion of the commission that we now be permitted to advertise for a management agency having a track record in successful airport operation."

The director said that the successful bidder would have to post a $1 million bond and be prepared to assume full responsibility of airport operation within 15 days of signing the agreement, Webre said.

Vaughan said it was Global's intention to hire a fully qualified airport manager should they be successful in their bid.

In addition to providing full time fixed base operations, as specified by the Federal Aviation Agency, other involved services include aviation gas and jet fuel sales; aircraft sales and maintenance; aircraft rentals; aircraft charter services; flight training; food, car rental and other concessions; hangar rentals and aircraft tie downs; flight attendants; management of buildings, the submission and implementation of minimum operating standards for fixed base operators, and the computation and submission of an airport operations manual.

To fulfill the contract, the management agency may install one or more fixed base operators, and engage in other promotional activities to swell airport revenues.

Webre said no land sale was involved in the contract and none is contemplated.

For its part, the county will receive three cents a gallon from both gasoline and jet fuel sales, and all net profits after deducting the management agency's fixed budget and 10 percent management fee. The agency would submit a budget request to the county each fiscal year for approval, Webre said.

To permit fiscal year audits, the initial management contract will expire Sept. 30, 1976.

At least for this period, Webre said Tuesday, the commission may have to meet the difference in present gross revenues and commission approved, budgeted expenditures.

Now suitable for a commercial reliever airport, Stennis International boasts of an 8,500 by 150 foot main runway - having a 280,000 lb. stress capacity - complete with taxiway and turnarounds.

County school board told policy manual is essential

John Hartman, executive secretary of the Mississippi School Board Association (MSBA), told a combined meeting of the Hancock County Board of Education and the Bay-Waveland Independent Separate School District Monday that a school district's administrative staff "is in limbo without a comprehensive policy manual."

Speaking at the invitation of Superintendent Terrell Randolph, Hartman said school districts are usually involved in "brush fire" problem solving. "This means that we tend to solve the problems on the spot and for that one occasion. This can create additional problems in some cases due to the emotional atmosphere," he said.

He stressed that an updated policy manual is "absolutely essential" for effectively administering a school district. Hartman recommended that, in the case of Hancock County which does not have an updated policy, minutes of previous meetings should be researched, all items pertaining to policy compiled, and the compilation sent to the MSBA for a set of "recommended policies" which can be applied locally.

He said the "most important" policy a school board should adopt is "a policy not to adopt a policy on the first reading."

Contending that the MSBA is "concerned with the way legislators have learned to ignore school boards and administrators," Hartman suggested that school boards might consider organizing into statewide regions to meet, discuss common problems, and present their demands "in an unified body" to legislators.

Following the meeting, Randolph said the county school system has not had a set of updated school board policies for many years "and Mr. Hartman impressed my office of that need."

"In order to provide an up-to-date school system and progressive education, we desperately need guidelines to maintain a system where the school board, superintendent, principals, teachers, and students will understand the operation and goals that we seek," he said.

Postal rates increase for special mail

According to Bay St. Louis Postmaster Frank Taconi, the following rate increases are now effective due to temporary domestic special services fees enforced last weekend.

For insured packages, the rate increased from 20 cents to 25 cents for up to $15 coverage; from 35 to 40 cents for up to $50 coverage; from 40 to 50 cents for up to $100 coverage; from 50 to 65 cents for up to $150 coverage; and from 60 to 80 cents for up to $200 coverage.

Restricted delivery rates rose from 50 cents to 60 cents and return receipts increased from 15 to 20 cents.

For registered letters, the fee in addition to postage, went from 95 cents to $1.25 for up to $100 declared value; to $1.65 for up to $200; $2.05 for up to $400; $2.45 for up to $600; $2.85 for up to $800; and $3.25 for up to $1,000.

Special handling rates increased from 25 cents to 30 cents for parcel up to two pounds; from 35 cents to 45 cents for 10 pound parcels; and from 45 cents to 65 cents for parcels weighing more than 10 pounds.

Special delivery fees, in addition to postage, increased from 60 cents to 80 cents for first class not weighing more than two pounds.

For money orders, the cost went from 25 cents to 30 cents for a $10 order; 35 cents to 45 cents for up to a $50 order; and 40 cents to 50 cents for up to a $300 order.

Taconi said the fees for international registration, insurance, special delivery, and restricted delivery will increase in accordance with the temporary fees.

Pickets protest tenant treatment

A failure to comply with federal guidelines concerning tenant grievance registration procedures, led this week to the formation of picket lines at both the Bay St. Louis and Waveland Housing Authority offices.

Complaints against the project housing administration surfaced earlier this month when a small group of tenants met with Bay St. Louis city officials.

Led by Rev. James Orange, task force director, Southern Christian Leadership Conference, the group blamed a complete lack of communication between housing directors Mrs. James Wimble of Bay St. Louis, and Mrs. Karen Ladner of Waveland as the cause of much of the unrest.

Questioned this week both directors said they had still to receive the first, written grievance.

"HUD has an established procedure for grievance hearing and we are ready to move along this channel immediately after such a complaint is received," the directors said.

Investigation into tenant claims that such procedure was unknown to them revealed information is contained as a clause to the lease.

To make doubly sure that her tenants are now aware of that clause, Mrs. Wimble Tuesday dispatched a copy of the grievance filing form to every one of her 101 project dwelling along with detailed instructions for filing.

Mrs. Wimble also supplied copies of a letter being sent this week to 26 of her tenants calling for the payment of rents on a regular basis...otherwise, it will be necessary to commence eviction proceedings."

A like letter has also been dispatched by Mrs. Ladner to nine of her lease holders. Waveland has a total of 75 project units.

The two directors also, again emphasized that they were conducting their operation strictly within the federal government's guidelines.

The computation of rents, gas charges, maintenance fees, and collection methods are monitored by HUD, both directors said.

Waveland Mayor John Longo said Wednesday that he felt all parties involved in the affair can be satisfied if they abide by the law.

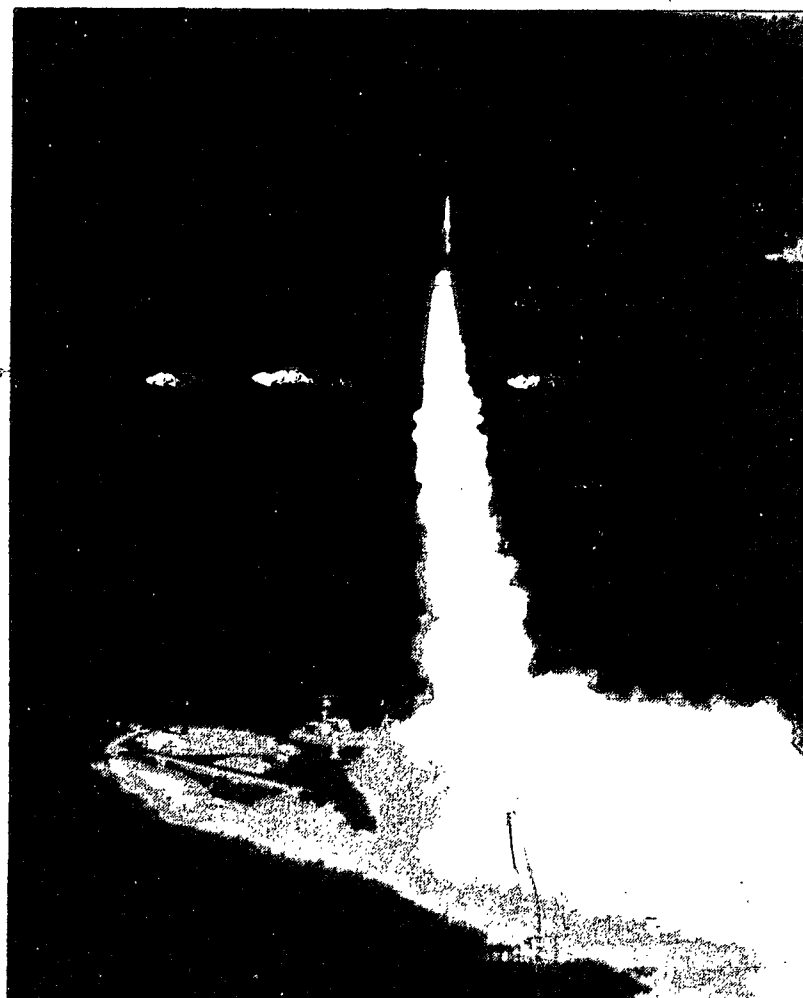

"As I interpret the law, the grievance should be made directly to the housing authority in writing. These complaints will then come before the respective boards," the mayor said.

Other project tenants visited this week said they had no desire to join in with the dissenters although they did express the thought that if some of the tenants "had a beef" then they should file grievance.

A general tenant meeting has been set up for 7:30 p.m., Friday in Sy Rosenthal Gymnasium at St. Augustine's Seminary.

On target

While traveling at a speed of 70 miles per hour, the U. S. Navy's SES-100B successfully launched a medium range guided missile over the Gulf of Mexico last week, and exactly 20 seconds later, the missile hit its target, a surplus vessel positioned off the south coast of Fort Walton Beach, Fla. This photograph of the missile as it left the launching pad, was taken by Carl Gustafson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gustafson Sr. of Bay St. Louis. Gustafson is a Bay High School graduate and began his career in photography by working for the BHS year book and school paper.

Travel agents, journalists hear benefits

Mississippi A & I Board representatives went international last week and greeted there's more than one way to say "welcome to Mississippi."

In Biloxi, members of the Travel and Tourism and Public Affairs departments greeted 23 Canadian travel agents at a luncheon hosted by the Sheraton Biloxi. Also on hand were several Coast innkeepers and members of Gulf Coast Chambers of Commerce. The Canadians had been bussed from New Orleans by the U.S. Travel Service for a one-day indoctrination on the attractions of the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

The same evening the A & I Board contingent was in Okatibbee Water Park near Meridian to greet 63 foreign journalists touring the United States with Caravan America 76. The Caravan, sponsored by the Wally Byam Foundation in cooperation with United States Information Agency and Discover America Travel Organization, will bring about 300 international journalists this summer to the states on a special Bicentennial America tour.

In Biloxi, all the Canadians spoke English which made conversations about Mississippi package tours pleasant and easy.

At Okatibbee, it was another story. English was at a premium as most of the internationalists had only a limited knowledge of the language. A & I Board staffers managed welcomes in French, Spanish and German but fell short at Yugoslavian, Italian, Korean, Czechoslovakian, Danish, Chinese and Malaysian. Tour guides, and promotional material on Mississippi were handed out with a lot of smiles, but answering questions about the state in Slavic or Oriental languages was decidedly restricted.

Despite the language restrictions, both groups of visitors expressed their delight with the friendliness of Mississippians, the verdant countryside and the 70-degree weather, in contrast to snow and sub-freezing temperatures in Canada, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia.

The three A & I Board staffers are now taking crash courses to broaden their linguistic abilities before the next Caravan group arrives in May.

Community social services are public forum subjects

The necessity of certain social services within individual communities is the theme of a series of public meetings being staged by the Mississippi Department of Public Welfare throughout the state. Administered under the provisions of Title 20 of the Social Security Act, the programs are funded by federal and state grants, plus in some cases, local matching funds.

nesday, April 23, East Fifth Street Community Center, Hattiesburg; 10 a.m. to 12 noon, Thursday, April 29, Westside Community Center, Gulfport.

Ms. Quinlan said the park was entering into a full schedule of both daily and weekend activities for campers designed to provide both "...fun and entertainment."

Randolph responds

Superintendent of Education Terrell Randolph issued the following statement Tuesday in response to an allegation made Friday by Tommy Shaw, district three school board member, that Randolph had "overstepped" his authority by elevating an assistant coach to acting principal at Hancock North Central High School without securing board approval.

"As superintendent and chief officer of the Hancock County schools, I did not overstep my authority in using personnel to fit our academic program. Mr. Ward (assistant coach David Ward) was selected by the principal Mr. O'Hara (James O'Hara), who was given the authority to hire his own assistants. Mr. O'Hara felt that Mr. Ward could do a commendable job, and he has complete faith in his ability. I'm completely satisfied with our program."

Shaw, when contacted at his home Tuesday, declined to comment on Randolph's statement.

Apply for social security number before that summer job

Students and other people who plan to get a summer job should apply immediately for a social security number if they don't have one, according to Charles E. Wofford, social security district manager in Gulfport.

"You should apply for your number several weeks before you need it for a job covered by social security," Wofford said. Applications must be screened against central files in Baltimore to make sure that a second number isn't issued to that same person. Screening generally takes several weeks.

Has beneficiary changed on your insurance?

By CHESTER CURVEY
Every veteran should, upon reading this column, check his insurance policies to determine these three things:

Is the principal beneficiary that you have named on your insurance policy, the person you wish to receive your insurance at your death? Is the contingent beneficiary that you have named still the one to receive your insurance in case the principal beneficiary has changed for some reason?

Is the settlement option that you selected when coverage began still the way you want your beneficiary to receive your insurance? It may be that the payment option you picked years ago may not be enough to be of much benefit at today's prices. Why not choose the first option and then at your death the beneficiary, based on his or her needs, can pick their own method of payment?

Is your insurance still a Five-Year TERM POLICY? If so the premiums will continue to rise every five years until the premiums will be next to impossible to keep up.

consider converting to a PERMANENT PLAN INSURANCE where the premiums remain the same for the life of the policy.

HOME LOANS

The Veterans Administration has issued in excess of 57,000 releases from liability on home loans over the years. The VA urges other veterans to request releases when a new purchaser assumes their G.I. Loan.

There is a very good reason for obtaining this release from liability when disposing of your property. The seller could be held financially liable should the purchaser default on the payments. The VA releases from liability only those loans which are current. The prospective purchaser must agree to assume the Veterans liabilities on the home and have a good enough credit rating to assume mortgage payments.

A release from liability does not automatically restore to the veteran his home loan eligibility. Under the law, veterans can only qualify for restoration when the VA has been relieved of liability and the property was disposed of in a proper manner.

In view of the above, as soon as a purchaser agrees to assume the loan on a home, the veteran should apply for a release from liability from the VA Office which guaranteed the loan. Without a doubt it would be a shock to the veteran to find out he was still the owner of a home, that had been turned into a slum dwelling, that he thought he had sold years ago.

Loans for the purchase of a mobile home prevents the use of the loan guaranty for the purchase of a home until the mobile home loan has been repaid in full. The amount of the loan guaranty is 60 percent of the principal or a maximum of $17,500.

The maximum guarantee loans for single-wide mobile homes is $12,500 and $20,000 for a double-wide mobile home. For single-wide mobile homes where it includes the purchase of a developed or an undeveloped lot, the maximum is $20,000 and $27,500 for the double-wide mobile home and lot - not to exceed $12,500 or $20,000 for the mobile home respectively. Contact your County Service Officer, Chester L. Curvey, at 467-5404 for further information.

Court vacates injunction in Riemann suit

An application filed in Mississippi Supreme Court last week by attorneys for Riemann Funeral Homes of Gulfport asking for a temporary injunction barring former employee Harold Stiglet from continuing his employment at Edmond, Fahey Funeral Home in Bay St. Louis was denied and remanded back for a hearing in Hancock County Chancery Court, the Echo learned Tuesday.

The order, signed by Justice R.P. Sugg, had originally scheduled an April 22 hearing in Jackson, which was denied by the court.

Hewes set May 12 as the date for a local hearing. The application for temporary injunction against Stiglet was filed last Friday after Chancellor Frank Alexander withdrew from the bench in the hearing at the request of defense attorney Joe Sam Owen. His refusal was based on his former association with the law firm of Ger. & Estes, Riemann's attorney.

The suit filed by Riemann alleges that Stiglet violated the terms of his contract with his former employer when he left that business to join Fahey.

It was revealed in testimony last Thursday that the contract provides that a Riemann employee can not be employed by or associated with another funeral home in Hancock, Harrison, or Jackson Counties for a two year period following his disassociation with Riemann.

Doctor challenges IRS by paying taxes on silver only

Will courts declare our money unconstitutional

A dam that's been holding back a flood of Constitutional debate may break any day now. Some adventuresome court, somewhere, state or federal, will shock us all by ruling that paper bills in your wallet and the copper and nickel coins in your pockets are all unlawful money.

How's that possible? An increasing number of court cases are asking judges to rule on that question, and so far "avoiding Constitutional issues" is the name of the game. But the Constitution speaks plainly enough, in Article I, Section 10.

No State shall make any thing but gold and silver coin a tender in payment of debts.

For the past decade a steady string of "tax protestors" have been trying to get the Constitutional question of our money before the courts. Finally, in Fullerton, Calif., this year, Dr. Marcel Methot has filed with the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) in the federal district courtroom of Judge Harry Pregerson.

And into the record, for three days, Dr. Methot poured documents and testimony, calling for acknowledgment of a Constitutional issue. The 41-year-old chiropractor lost the first round Jan. 23 when he was convicted by Judge Pregerson of "failing to file" for 1971.

Conviction, and subsequent sentencing of $10,000 fine, 3 years probation, and the loss of his license to practice, were the judge's avoidance of significant legal questions that upset Methot and his supporters, because in fact he had filed in 1971.

What irked the IRS, and led to an unusual criminal indictment (instead of a civil action) against Methot, was the latter's filing a return that included only his lawful income: "only that money he received in 1971 that was backed by gold or silver. Instead of filing a tax return showing his annual income in flat dollars," Methot's return showed an income of "Constitutional money" of $1,700, the tax against which was $259.00.

The IRS has an edict against such a filing (one the doctor admitted knowing about) and the conviction amounts to a punishment for ignoring it. Methot hopes to test the constitutionality of such an edict. Pregerson's avoidance of that issue was a disappointment. Also up for discussion is the lawfulness of the money he didn't report as income. Constitutional arguments are contained in the court record, and perhaps somewhere up the appeals line they will be acknowledged.

Methot believes that inflation is connected to "illegal money," or Federal Reserve Notes. Fed money is backed by the credit system of the country, either by government bonds or the well-being of the industrial-commercial system. In effect, the money we carry around — the only money allowed in general circulation — is a reflection of our passion for credit, its all borrowed against a time we have vaguely promised to pay up. But pay up what to whom? Against such uncertainty, Methot believes, inflation is a natural hedge.

In mid-February 44 federal judges themselves raised Constitutional objections to inflation. In a suit filed against their employer, the U.S. government, they charged Uncle Sam with violation of Article III, Section 1, which prohibits "either direct or indirect diminution of federal judges' compensation." While the judges get a 5 per cent annual pay increase, they claim it is not enough to keep up with the deterioration of the dollar.

Despite their often bizarre reluctance to permit tax protestors and hard money advocates to argue Constitutional issues in their courtroom, the judges are nevertheless opening the Pandora's Box of a great national debate on lawful vs. unconstitutional money. By implication, the judges are admitting that something is wrong with our medium of exchange, and that extraordinary judicial remedies will be needed to correct it. In their case, they claim, the only way to get a straight answer as to why they are "being cheated by inflation" is to address the Constitution and ask for an answer.

Trying to correct the money system — on behalf of ordinary people also — "being cheated by inflation" — by asking questions of the Constitution has been hitherto forbidden in the courtrooms of those same judges.

True to recent legislative form in other problem areas of American life, it will probably take a court decision to drag legislators, kicking and screaming, into the debate about money systems and inflation. All Americans know that their money has been radically devalued, and that the legislative branch is reluctant to confront the problem. It was

Congress that originally delegated its money-making responsibilities in 1913 to a corporation of private bankers, the Federal Reserve. No one effectively polices the Fed's Board of Governors: its meetings are secret, its members are nominated and approved as if their existence was of no consequence to anyone, there are no representatives of the public on the Board, the press takes no interest in them, and its all-around sacred territory, full of mystery. After they become tired of spy hunts and Presidential politics, and if the judiciary triggers an open debate, perhaps Congress' next big investigatory target will be the Fed.

The case to watch for, if the Methot appeal doesn't break the dam, is the person who files an IRS return fully admitting his income of Federal Reserve Notes, but adding to the return a depreciation formula that takes into account, as does the case of the 44

Judges, the diminution of purchasing power. Such a formula would reduce taxable income by two-thirds. The legality of this filing may depend upon how many questions judges will permit the Constitution to answer, and how good a case this future litigant makes against the Fed's Governors for depriving a taxpayer of property (income) without due process.

Behind the surface arguments about the IRS, the Federal Reserve, inflation, paper money, silver and gold, etc., is the deeper debate about what a Constitution really is.

Most law school and political science professors and the judges that come from their classrooms support, with an educated prejudice, what I call the exoskeletal theory of constitutions: they are rules we can change as we please to protect the game we decide to play. Exoskeletal constitutions — like the shells of an evolving insect — assume whatever form that's needed, however monstrously dissimilar that form may be to the creature's original shape.

Conservatives and libertarians who fill the ranks of tax protestors and currency reform groups subscribe to the endoskeletal theory of constitutions: they are rules we decide to keep constant because they define and limit us to the only game we believe worth playing. The endoskeletal constitution — like the skeletal constitution of a man — resides within as a limiting set of facts, and when the creature gets out of synch with those de-limiting facts he is warned by either illness or catastrophe.

Methot fills his waiting room with flyers, books, and literature tying health and chiropractic to his struggle to reform money and feign what the exoskeletal folks have done to the vertebrate of the American Constitution. Like many of his breed — there are reputed to be 10 million active tax rebels amongst us! — he sees much of American history as alternating periods of health and disease; where the Constitutionally correct posture was assumed, he sees health and peaceful prosperity, where American Constitutional principles were sacrificed to play any game that came along, he sees civil strife, wars, inflation, distortion of the Bill of Rights, and the growth of bureaucracy and tyrannical government.

And for Methot constitutional money is just what the Founding Fathers said it was: following their disastrous experience with the Continental Dollar.

Jefferson, the strict constructionist, the day's strict constructionists like Jefferson, warred all his life against inflationary bills of credit (paper money like our own), and supported strict adherence to a silver and gold medium of exchange. Big government advocates like Alexander Hamilton, men opposed to popular rights and advocates of a powerful central government, supported a central bank and soft, credit-inflated money. The Hamiltonians were stopped until the Civil War, then stopped again until the Federal Reserve Bank system was created in 1913. They have had the upper hand with U.S. money ever since.

Perhaps one reason the mass media pays so little attention to this swelling new anti-Hamiltonian movement — and no attention to the constitutional debate that accompanies it — is because its another educated prejudice to believe that if someone sees "all the pieces fitting together," he's necessarily unbalanced. Skeptical journalists would be especially prejudiced against such people, amongst whose numbers are the endoskeletal interpreters of the U.S. Constitution. If the new wave of anti-Hamiltonians are to be disrespected for their style of thought, their theories of the Constitution, money, property, liberty, and government, and to be ignored year after year by the mass media, their patriotism can only be provoked in one direction — violent retaliation.

A vast body of literature exists today encouraging tax rebellion, exhorting people who have done battle with the IRS or the Fed (battles over civil rights and liberties that, oddly enough, the ACLU appears never to have joined), and entreating people to use an underground hard currency of silver and gold instead of "printing press legal tender for all debts public and private." There is a string of court cases going back to the 1950's, and Methot's is the latest in that series; if his case fails to trigger open, popular debate of the Constitutional issues, then the dialogue will remain closed, and the experiment for those who are conscious enough to know "what's happening," exactly 200 years after the first great Constitutional debate.

Ultimately, American style, perhaps in this bicentennial year, we'll all help decide what kind of money we want. The sooner that decision process gets out into the open, and everybody takes a stand, the better off this country will be.

TIMBER TALK
When a federal court in West Virginia two years ago ruled that certain timber-cutting practices were in violation of the Organic Act of 1897, it effectively stopped timber sales in nine national forests in four Southeastern states.

That's bad news for just about anyone you care to name, for such a halt in timber sales can't help but adversely affect the housing industry, the employment situation, our school systems, and the rate of inflation — just to name a few.

The court case, known as the Monongahela decision since it was directed at the Monongahela National Forest, was appealed for a ruling on the appeal last year upheld the original decision. Congress is now in the picture, trying to pass remedial legislation aimed at providing immediate long-term relief from the adverse impact on national forest timber sales.

As you can imagine, the nation's timber industry is up in arms over the decision. They're charging that the courts are trying to assume the role of timber management, a practice the courts are not trained to handle.

"As a result of that court case, the nation's forest products industry — and eventually the general public — faces a crisis which could substantially reduce the nation's timber supply, cost 130,000 jobs in the lumber products and pulp and paper industries alone, and adversely affect thousands of others in related service industries," one timber representative wrote in a recent letter. "Our sawmill in Libby, Montana, employs over 800 people and is 70 percent dependent on national forest timber sales. A cut of 40 percent in its timber supply would mean immediate job losses in an already high unemployment area."

Such forecasts have been enough to attract the interest of many members of the Senate and the House, the kind of coalition that crosses party lines as well as political philosophy. The result has been a number of recent hearings in the Senate and the House, where representatives of both sides of the dispute put forth their views.

The heart of the issue is the court's ruling that prohibits sales from anything but large, dead, or physiologically mature trees or trees that are individually marked. That effectively rules out clear cutting, a timber-cutting practice in wide use in Mississippi.

Several bills have been introduced in both houses of the Congress. One would return the responsibility for forest management back to the Forest Service. It would also amend the Organic Act of 1897 by inserting new authority for timber sales.

On the other side of the coin is a bill offered by Senator Randolph of West Virginia, who wants to take the responsibility for land management away from the Forest Service. In effect, he wants to tell the Forest Service what to do.

As a member of the National Forest Reservation Commission, I have a unique and very personal interest in our nation's forests. I feel very strongly that we need to preserve the beauty of these forests.

On the other hand, I have an equally personal interest in the future of the people and the schools of South Mississippi. I don't want to do anything that would take jobs away from Mississippians or money away from our schools.

Accordingly, I plan to support legislation in the Congress that will return the responsibility for forest management to the Forest Service, where it belongs. They best know how to scientifically manage and preserve our nation's forests.

Dear Sir:

This is just to acquaint the general public, especially the children, that coming up soon will be "Be Kind to Animals Week," May 2-8.

A program will broadcast on TV under the title "Sixty Seconds" and is scheduled to be televised on 300 stations throughout the nation.

The information I have received from the A.V. Society does not give the name of the station (carrying the program) in our area, so I would advise a search in your regular "TV Guide" booklet to get the time and station. The A.A.V.S. Society sponsors this program.

We should be kind to animals every day in the year, not just one week. These dumb creatures add color, charm, beauty, and diversity to our world, even a means of vital food. We do not always think of these things.

The American Anti Vivisection Society has been working on a program to eliminate cruelty and agony in student research. There are ways to alleviate suffering, if science will recognize them.

It is much easier to be kind to animals, even when they seem disobedient; only cowards vent anger over dumb beasts when they fail to respond.

Is this extinct species the last lawful American dollar? Not minted after 1957. Worth $3 in Federal Reserve Notes (below) until July, 1967, when Pres. Johnson declared them unredeemable for silver coin. Coin shops sell them for a mere penny premium, i.e., for $1.01.

Since 1913 this Note (a promise to pay, sometime, in lawful dollars) has become an increasing percentage of total U.S. currency. Now, as Gresham's Law predicts, it has driven all the "Good" (hard) currency into the black market. No one pretends the above Notes will ever be redeemed for gold or silver specie, thus raising the intriguing question of how lawful they were in the first place.

Corps snagboat returns to clear river system

Critical snags on the Black Warrior-Tombigbee River system resulting from the recent heavy rains have required a temporary cessation of removal of obstacles submerged in Mississippi Sound, according to Colonel Drake Wilson of the Mobile District Corps of Engineers.

Colonel Wilson said that logs, trees which have sloughed into the river, and other obstructions to navigation required that the Corps' Snagboat ROS return to the Black Warrior-Tombigbee system immediately. The ROS is normally assigned to this river system but was on a temporary mission to clear snags on the Gulf of Mexico coast and posing a threat to vessels in Mississippi Sound.

Colonel Wilson said that all known obstacles in the Biloxi-Gulfport area have already been removed and that only three areas, all marked by buoys, remain. These three areas are in the vicinity of Pascagoula and will be cleared as soon as the ROS can return to the Mississippi Sound.

Fishermen who regularly work in the sound marked known obstructions with buoys and the Corps was using the ROS to remove them. It is estimated that these obstacles were causing $50,000 to $75,000 in damage and losses each year.

Assistance asked to find handicapped

The Bay St. Louis municipal school district is presently conducting a survey to find all children in the district who are mentally or physically handicapped and not presently attending school.

Assistant superintendent of Education Donald Caldwell said the survey was being conducted to determine where expansion or further programs are needed in the areas of special education.

Persons knowing of a child who is either physically or mentally handicapped and not in school are asked to contact Caldwell's office at 467-9241.

Parents are special guests

PRJC, Kiln campus to host first open house

Pearl River Junior College will hold an open house for its Hancock County Vocational-Technical Center Sunday between the hours of 2-4 p.m.

The public is invited along with students and their parents as special guests.

The 35,000 square foot facility, located in the Hancock County Industrial Park adjacent to Stennis International Airport, is nestled on a 12 acre tract of land and is touted as one of the best equipped Vo-Tech facilities anywhere in the state. The center is valued at over $1 million.

The center was constructed by joint efforts of the people of Hancock County, Pearl River Junior College and the State Department of Education, Vocational Education Division.

Since its inception three years ago the center has provided vocational-technical education and other services to junior and senior high school students, post-secondary students and adult continuing education students.

The center presently serves almost 350 day and night students and has seven full time instructors. The complete staff numbers 11.

Junior and senior high school students enrolled in any of the high schools in Hancock County are urged to use the center. All subjects offered on this level are designed on a two-year basis, to provide each student with training so he may successfully enter the trade of his choice on an advanced entry level after graduation from high school.

There is no cost to the individual student. Courses offered on the secondary level include: Automotive mechanics, building trades, metal trades, industrial electricity, and combination welding.

If a student desires to receive additional training on the post-secondary level, he may do so at the main campus of Pearl River Junior College, which is located in Poplarville, Mississippi.

At the present time, two courses are offered on the post-secondary level. They are practical nursing and general clerical.

The Practical Nursing program is offered to students meeting all requirements set forth by Pearl River Junior College and the State Department of Education. Upon completing the 1800 man hours (one year) course and passing the State Board exam, the student will be a licensed practical nurse.

General Clerical is a nine month course with curriculum recommended for students who expect to do general office work. The courses involved in this program will be typewriting, filing, business English, general office practice, clerical record-keeping, office machines and business math.

Several night classes are offered at the center to allow adults in the area the opportunity to participate. These courses will include all trade courses that are provided to high school students. Other classes will be offered upon student demand. All will be scheduled on a short term continuing basis. The adult courses will vary in duration and cost and will provide the student with a new skill or upgrade the student's present skill.

The Hancock County Vocational-Technical Center is an official Mississippi GED testing center. Non-high-school-graduate adults have the opportunity of taking GED tests in order to determine whether they meet requirements to earn a high school level credential. After passing the GED tests an individual is issued a high school equivalency certificate by the State Department of Education.

In order to be eligible to take the GED tests, an applicant must be a resident of the State of Mississippi for at least one year and be at least 20 years of age. In certain cases with prior approval by the State Department of Education, 17, 18, and 19 year olds are eligible to take the tests.

Another program offered at the Vo-Tech Center is special training for the unemployed, underemployed and economically disadvantaged, through an Adult Basic Education and General Educational Development Program. Pearl River Junior College and the Governor's Office of Education and

There is no charge for the training for those who qualify. Students must be at least 16 years of age to enter the class. Those interested may enter the class at any time throughout the year.

Industry start-up-training is available to new and expanding industries locating or located in Mississippi. Start-up training is to provide training of a desired labor force at no cost to the industry. The Vo-Tech Center in cooperation with the State Department of Education, Vocational division, will have the responsibility of aiding industry in selecting a training facility, using state equipment or industry equipment, and providing an instructor. At any rate, the training provided will be no expense to industry.

It is the intent of Pearl River Junior College to familiarize all residents of Hancock County with the opportunities provided in vocational education through their Vocational-Technical Center.

Senior Citizens Happenings

By DON MAUFFRAY

The Bay-Waveland area senior citizens had their annual Easter egg hunt and picnic this past week at Buccaneer Park. What a beautiful day it was! And the affair was well attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Roppolo, Mrs. Rose Everard, and John Thomas went out to the park earlier in the morning and hid 12 dozen eggs and two prize ceramic eggs. Miss Wayne Holland found the first prize egg and Mrs. Edna Favre the second. Raymond Williams won the stuffed rabbit for having found the most eggs.

Miss. Valley Food Service, under the local direction of Mrs. Margaret Keen, delivered the fried chicken picnic lunches on the grounds. Many of the seniors packed their own favorite lunches. The cold drinks were furnished by the county board of supervisors.

"Flip" Johnson, his brother Bill Johnson and son Danny, and Joe Bobinger were on hand to play some real toe-tappin' music for the enjoyment of all.

In Pearlington, Mrs. Irma Cuevas and her faithful volunteers held their annual Easter dinner for the senior citizen participants in that area; and, as always, the food was simply delicious and the tables gaily decorated with stuffed rabbits that the ladies made themselves. "Flip" Johnson's Band provided the music again while many spry "Keenagers" kicked up their heels.

In KDM, Mildred Bobinger and Mrs. Ellen Peterson prepared some delicious chicken gumbo for our Easter dinner and egg hunt at the Kiln VFW. Mesdames Carrie Gatewood, Rena Travirca, Effie Mazaradis, and Theresa Head dyed the 10 dozen eggs which Louis Maloney hid so secretly that almost 2 dozen were never found. Those celebrating April birthdays at Kiln were Mrs. Mabel Moran, Mrs. Denise Green, Charlie Beam, and our faithful volunteer pianist, Mrs. Betty Carroll. Mrs. Ellen Peterson again this year won the stuffed rabbit for finding the most eggs. She also found the Prize Egg.

Finally, to round off a beautiful Holy Week, Father John Scanlon of St. Clare's Catholic Church in Waveland delivered an Easter message on Friday to our Congregate Meal and Day Care participants. Yours truly sang the "Our Father", accompanied by Mrs. Betty Carroll at the piano. Sidney Gonzales and Mrs. Eva Vince won the drawings for the Easter baskets. The ladies of our quilting class have informed me that the bicentennial quilt that they are making will soon be finished. It is a very beautiful quilt and will be raffled off to some lucky person. Anyone wishing to take chances on this masterpiece please call me at 467-9292.

According to HUD, the pre-application "did not rate sufficiently high to warrant funding for this year."

In a letter to Board President Dolph Kellar, James S. Roland, HUD area director, said the low grade was given, in part, because the pre-application "did not fully comply with eligibility standards."

The letter continued that the county may submit a plan next year, and added that failure to do so would not affect chances for future

Liberty ships give birth to IGUS

Waveland artisans find beauty in salvaged covers

By MIKE FLYNN

Mass production and the use of synthetic materials are largely responsible for the high standard of living that Americans enjoy today. It might even be said that mass production is an American invention. Goods produced on an assembly line allow consumers to enjoy a cost saving and enables them to acquire products that might otherwise be impossible to attain.

But mass produced articles lack uniqueness and their aesthetic value is divided into as many parts as there are numbers of copies made. It is for that reason that people like to have handmade goods made out of natural materials. And, for similar reasons, most craftsmen prefer to work on unique, one of a kind creations.

The people at IGUS, Ltd. are that kind of craftsmen.

IGUS is the creation of three Waveland residents who, among other things, like good solid furniture made out of real wood.

Brian Dye, Roland Payne and Pam Greenberg-Payne are the founders of IGUS, Ltd. (incorporated in January) and they are presently engaged in the manufacture of tables made from hatch covers salvaged from WW II Liberty Ships.

The group purchased over 300 hatch covers being salvaged from the SS George Gershwin before that ship was scrapped. The majority of the hatch covers are made of pine, although there are a few oak ones available. They are very solid pieces of wood held together by metal straps and they show over 30 years of wear and tear.

But, even after 30 years, the hatch covers are very solid and make good materials for tables, benches, chairs or just about any other type of furniture that could be constructed from wood of that size.

The size of the hatch cover is perfect for a coffee table and which just happens to be the item the three have made the most of so far. IGUS also makes end tables, dining tables and mariners' benches. These craftsmen are, of course, not adverse to doing custom work and welcome such inquiries.

Regardless of the particular piece of furniture being made, each hatch cover must receive a lot of work and attention before it can be used. Thirty years of wear shows on anything and especially on the fixtures of ships that have been used in wartime and then some.

In its rough form fresh out the salvage yard the surface of the cover is said to be "distressed." It takes hours of sanding to make a distressed surface smooth.

Ironically, the word IGUS stands for "I Gave Up Sanding." This is what Brian, Roland and Pam had in mind when they took leave from doing boat maintenance to become furniture manufacturers but they have yet to escape the drudgery of hand sanding.

Hours of sanding will not remove the character of the wood surface - after all, it took 30 years of wear to chip and mark the wood - but sanding does eliminate splinters and dirt to prepare the surface for a finish.

Just as it takes hours to get the surface in a workable condition it takes days to apply a proper finish. Eight coats of finish are generally applied allowing a day for each application.

Other hatch covers are then sawed into pieces for use as legs and supports, although other materials can be used at the customer's option. Brass inlay work is also done if requested.

A typical coffee table construction takes over 30 hours of labor spanning eight days or more to yield the final product...a solid piece of quality furniture that will very probably last well over another 30 years.

While almost anybody can appreciate the quality of the craftsmanship involved, many people might find price to be an obstacle. The coffee tables sell for $350. A similar piece of furniture (if it could be found) however, would likely sell for $600 plus if it were sold in a department store.

Brilliant finish

The reflections of wine bottles and glasses shows up in the brilliant finish applied to the old wood.

It is possible to save a considerable amount by buying an unfinished piece. This is a piece that has been sanded and is ready for a finish. It sells for about $100 and gives the amateur craftsman an opportunity to enjoy eight days of applying his own finish.

The mini-company plans to produce the unique furniture as long as they enjoy the work or until they run out of hatch covers.

In addition to making furniture, IGUS sponsors art shows and tries to promote Waveland and Gulf Coast business.

IGUS recently sponsored a showing of metal sculpture by area artists in a show at Diamondhead (ECHO March 25). They are interested in doing similar shows in the future with other local artists.

On April 24 - May 2 IGUS will be showing some of their products at the New Orleans Bicentennial Home Show sponsored by the Home Builders of Louisiana and the TIMES-PICAYUNE, at the Rivergate.

On a less commercial note Brian, Roland and Pam plan to take time off in June to go to Newport, Rhode Island to see Operation Sail '76 featuring square riggers from all over the world that are sailing to America as part of the Bicentennial.

Although they will be there as observers only, it was this kindred interest in the sea that originally brought the three together.

Brian came to this country from his native England to watch the America's Cup Race in 1964 and later met Roland. Brian and Roland are both licensed yacht captains and have spent many years sailing the Atlantic and Caribbean together.

Pam left her native Minnesota to answer the call of the sea and met Roland in Florida. She has served as ship's cook, deck hand and first mate.

Roland himself is originally from Ohio but has spent much time in New Orleans and in Waveland where his sister has owned a house for some time.

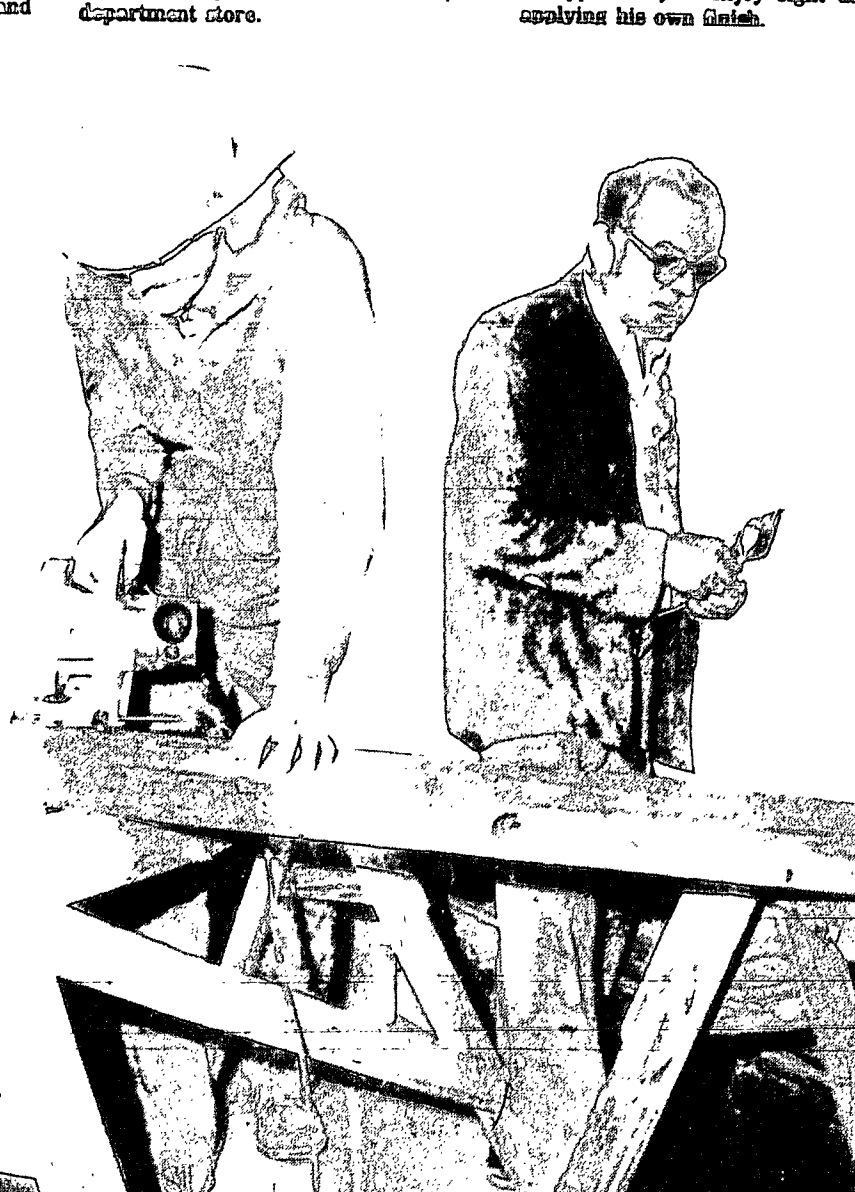

All three now call Waveland home and have the enthusiasm of natives when it comes to praising the area's good points and charms.

When the hatch covers run out the enterprising trio expressed hopes of finding something else to keep them busy here and promised always to make Waveland a port of call, if they can't live here.

Admiring the product

Brian Dye, Rod Carriker, Pam Payne and Roland Payne surround some of their finished pieces.

Craftsmen at work

Rod Carriker and Brian Dye prepare some supports in the shop. Although not a member of IGUS, Rod is employed by the company to help with the hatch covers.

Rocks take conference junior meet

The St. Stanislaus junior high track team narrowly edged Pass Christian to capture the 1976 Pascagoula River Conference Track and Field Championship last week in Moss Point.

Final results were: St. Stanislaus 56, Pass Christian 52, St. Martin 31, D'Iberville 28, Van Cleave 21, Notre Dame 17, East Central 15 and St. John 11.

The competition opened with strong showings by all eight schools in the field events.

Charles Vincent of St. Stanislaus broke two conference records with a 5'8" effort in the high jump and a leap of 18'8" in the long jump. At the end of the five field events, St. Stanislaus and D'Iberville were tied for first place. Van Cleave was third and Pass Christian held fourth place.

But as the competition progressed into the running events, it became apparent that the eight team meet had narrowed down to a two team race between St. Stanislaus and Pass Christian for the coveted championship trophy.

Pass Christian showed considerable strength in all the relays and Emil Dabul of Stanislaus took first place in the 880-yard run with a time of 2:15.0.

In the next to last event of the meet, Wayne Hoda took charge in the 220-yard dash and tied the conference record with a clocking of :23.7 to clinch the conference championship for the Rock-A-chaws.

Brother Malcolm Melcher is coach for the junior high team.

GREAT SCOT!

By Jack House, The Director Teacher's Scotch Information Centre

The world's fastest ball game is said to be Shinty, played mainly in the north of Scotland.

There are 12 players on each side and each player carries a wooden stick. The object is for a team to get a small hard ball through the other team's goal.

The Irish game of Hurling and English Hockey are the nearest approaches to Shinty, Teacher's Scotch Information

SCOTTISH WHIZ KIDS

A shinty field is larger than a football field and the ball is struck with such force that, as it flies from one end of the ground to the other, spectators often lose sight of it and find themselves looking in the wrong direction!

The Irish game of Hurling and English Hockey are the nearest approaches to Shinty, Teacher's Scotch Information

Centre feels, but the Highlanders are adamant that neither is nearly so fast as Shinty.

Yard Work Is Fun, Quick and Easy with the Weed Eater Needle

It's amazing how one tool can brighten your outlook on lawn and grounds maintenance while at the same time giving your lawn or grounds the distinct look of professional care.

The Weed Eater Needle actually is four tools in one - a trimmer, an edger, a mower and a sweeper. Needle cuts away the grass and weeds from trees, fences, rocks, ditches, borders, patios, bushes, posts and other objects found in many yards.

The secret is the patented Weed Eater system that uses specially-treated fishing line to do the cutting. And of course, besides being faster and easier to use, cutting grass with fishing line is also safer. Check Needle's outstanding features:

- Cuts a big 12" path
- Powered by a rugged 1/4 peak horsepower electric motor
- Approved by both UL and CSA
- Safer because it cuts with fishing line
- Gets to hard-to-reach places easily
- Weights less than 8 pounds
- Trims, edges, mows and sweeps
- Holds more than 30 feet of cutting line on easily replaceable spool

Better weather always means better fishing. We have had better weather for the past weekend so both fresh and salt water fishing has been better. Bass and perch fishing has improved. They have been caught most everywhere by fly fishing, casting and still fishing. Salt water fishing out front has also improved. Flounders are being caught on the bottom while croakers, red fish, ground mullets and a few speckles are being caught.

Pearl River is still over its banks. Naturally its tributaries are still on the bad side. Such streams as Jordan River, Bayou LaCrosse and the canals off the bayou are producing some good fresh water fishing. With the warm weather surface baits are giving the best results. Even caught a fresh water cat on the fly rod the other day.

Spent the past weekend in New Orleans helping to celebrate Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hoffman's 25th wedding celebration. Enjoyed a steak supper at Frank's Steak House and a party given by their children at Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Breaux's home.

Saw Mr. and Mrs. Nash Barrecca, owners of Frank's Steak House who are a wonderful couple. Nash said he don't do much fishing because he is too busy helping other people have a good time.

Roger Ural said his hobbies are playing golf, tennis and fishing. Does all when he has time. Has to work too, he claimed.

Bill Kelly, rides motorcycles, goes camping and coaches a Little League ball team. Pretty busy young man, I'll say. Goes to school also.

Emile (Potts) Perre and his wife have been visiting his sisters, Mrs. Chick Cabell and Juliette Cook, for the past week. He is from Dubuque, Iowa and graduated from St. Stanislaus College in 1928. Old timers will know him as the son of the late (Boy) Perre. His younger brother, Leon (Toto) also visited here from California last week. Emile's five children and their families live in Wisconsin. Emile enjoyed some fishing and soft crabbing with friends while here.

Michael J. Fricke is another young man who does salt water fishing, mostly trolling, was telling us of the fish he has been catching lately. A mighty good sport, Michael.

Was a pleasure meeting Lynn Caruthers and his wife, Shirley, owners of Sam's Place at Salt Bayou. A swell place to go. Have a nice launching place where bass can usually be caught. Hard crabbing can also be done. Thanks again folks for the boiled crabs.

Good news, what we have been waiting for. Soft crabs are now giving and being caught out front. This advice came from Henry Lang. He caught them last week.

Joe Taconi is up to his old trick. He spends most of his time raising a home garden. Raises tomatoes, eggplants, bell peppers out this world. Ask Joe he'll tell you how to do it.

Met another swell young man David Barrecca. David is not only an expert at serving steak suppers, but fishing as well. Fishes when he has time. Tell us your secret, David.

Mike Pouden and Gary Stout, stationed at Keeler Field in the Air Force do most of their fishing off the American Legion pier here. They showed me a 20 lb. shark caught Wednesday off the pier. It was an ugly creature, always ready to go. Has the equipment, too.

An easy way to line drawers is with inexpensive plastic place mats.

A fishing tip: Now that the weather is getting hot, wear a long sleeve shirt and wide brim hat. Sunburn can injure the skin. Why suffer?

Arthur Miller, Alden Mauffray, Ray Garner and Yours Truly all fished at Bayou LaCrosse Wednesday. The water was good, the tide right, naturally some bass were caught.

Flounders are being caught where the water is clear. Did you know that flounders are caught up Jourdan River when the tide is falling. Floundering can only be done from a boat. Paddle close to the bank. If you have an electric motor much the better. Flounders are caught in one foot of water. A flat bottom boat is best. All you have to do is drift with the tide and stick 'em. From Bayou LaCrosse to the mouth is the territory.

Had an Easter call from Junior Johnson in Baton Rouge. Sends regards to all. Expects to be down soon to do a little fishing.

Was a pleasure meeting Ken

Williams of record fame. He not only makes records, but loves fishing and hunting. Made me a present of a couple of records. "Where Did All The Good Times Go," and "God Made The Rivers." A wonderful guy.

Wayne Colson told me of the 54 lb. bass he caught the other day. He was using a Devil Horse bait. Something to be proud of Wayne.

Met another good fisherman, Alvin A. Cameron. He does all kinds of fishing. You can figure his age. Born in Bay St. Louis in 1932 and still going strong.

Al Vetter says he fishes most every day and specializes in catching bass and Blue Gills. There are plenty hereabout right now, he said.

H. J. Cummings from Marcell, Minn. said he is looking over our beautiful country. Might be a possible future citizen. Think he has fishing in mind.

Clarence "Gene" Autry is visiting Tommy Tomkins here. He loves to fish, does diving, and plays golf. Will retire from the F.A.A. in 1977. Hopes to move to Bay St. Louis. He now lives in Pensacola, Fla.

Lou Forrey from Poplarville, Miss. retired from the Miss. State Hwy. Dept. spends most of his time here, meeting friends and having a good time. Does some fishing too.

It's traditional

The white gown worn by the bride in traditional weddings originated in the mid-nineteenth century. The idea was apparently borrowed from the virgin-white gowns worn by little girls taking their first communion. Until this now popular custom was adopted, a bride wore her best dress or native costume to her wedding, adding a special touch of blue, the color of love.

Brides are always told to wear "something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue" to their wedding.

Many young couples today are planning traditional weddings based on their families' ethnic backgrounds or their own interest in history and different cultures.

Some ethnic traditions are quite profitable and well worth keeping. During a Mexican wedding reception, anyone dancing with the bride or groom pins money on the newlyweds. In addition to bringing gifts, guests at an Italian wedding place an envelope with money in a special bag which belongs to the bride.

Formality of wedding

dictates attire for guests

Throughout the year, many people are faced with the perplexing problem of what to wear to a wedding.

Most men will shrug and assume that a nice dress suit will be appropriate for formal and semi-formal weddings. Unless black tie or other dress is specified on the invitation, a man is correct in wearing a suit to most weddings if he is a guest. However, he may still be required to rent the traditional gray cutaway coat and striped trousers if he is asked to be an usher at a formal daytime wedding. Or, he may be asked to wear the black tuxedo with tails, a formal tux or dinner jacket for a formal dinner wedding.

More contemporary formal weddings feature the groom, best man and attendants in pastel tuxedos and ruffled shirts for spring and summer weddings while dark Edwardian or Windsor style jackets are worn during the winter. A casual suit, sports jacket or balzer is accepted at informal daytime weddings.

Women attendants have it easier since the bride chooses gowns for her attendants.

Formal and semiformal daytime and evening weddings feature bridesmaids in long gowns.

Women guests can wear long or short dresses to evening and daytime formal weddings. Dresses should be designed for evening wear at formal weddings, although streetlength dresses and pant suits can be worn to semiformal and informal daytime weddings.

The wedding cake

We can thank the French for the tiered cake that is customary at weddings today. Originally, small cakes were piled on a table at weddings and the bride and groom would kiss over the stack of cakes, trying not to knock them over. A Frenchman got the idea of icing all the small cakes into one large one.

Dougher-Berns

Miss Susan Jane Berns, daughter of Capt. U.S. Navy, ret., and Mrs. Max Arnold Berns of Waveland, formerly of Norfolk, VA, became the bride of John Edward Dougher, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Dougher of Waveland, in an afternoon ceremony at Christ Episcopal Church, April 17.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Charles R. Johnson before an altar decorated with vases of daisies and gypsophylla. A background of greenery completed the sanctuary setting. Mrs. Ben Hille Jr. provided nuptial music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of silk organza fashioned along princess lines, with a high ring collar. Venise lace appliques enhanced the neckline and bodice, and continued in a double row down the soft folds of the front circling the flare near the hemline of her gown, which swept into a chapel length, self-train.

The long, sheer lace-trimmed sleeves flared into a soft ruffle at the wrists. A caplet of venise lace embellished with seed pearls held her short elbow-length veil of illusion, which revealed tiny self-covered buttons highlighting the back of the dress.

The bride carried a cascade bouquet of white sweetheart roses, stephanotis, gyp-sophylla and English Ivy. Maid of honor was Miss Barbara Berns, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Miss Christine Dougher, sister of the groom, St. Louis, MO; Mrs. Judy Miller, San Diego, CA; Miss Beth Messinger, El Dorado, AR; and Mrs. Mark Uram, Bay St. Louis.

The attendants wore yellow dotted swiss gowns with lace-trimmed, square portrait-necklines, featuring long, full sleeves, and gently flared skirts ending in a lace-trimmed bounce at the hemline. They carried colonial bouquets of daisies and English Ivy and wore headpieces of matching flowers.

Mr. Dougher attended his son as best man. Groomsmen were Terry Markel of Waveland and Sam Blount of Sarasota, FL. Kent Hudson of Oxford, and James Everitt of Lake Jackson, Texas, served as ushers.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Berns chose a formal gown of crystal pleated pale green chiffon. The mother of the groom wore a pale pink chiffon gown featuring shirtdress styling and beaded bodice. Mrs. Herbert Ratenburg, the bride's grandmother, chose a light blue gown for the occasion. Orchid corsages completed their ensembles.

A reception was held following the ceremony at the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club.

The reception rooms were banked with palms and decorated with flowers in the bride's chosen colors.

The bride's table held a three-tiered wedding cake topped with fresh flowers and flanked by silver candelabra. Mr. and Mrs. Dougher cut the first piece of cake with her father's sword. The cake was then cut by Mrs. Sheldon Seuzeneau II.

Mrs. Terry Markel kept the guest register and Miss Penny Schilling presided at the punch table.

After a two-week honeymoon in Europe the couple will be at home in Memphis, TN, where the groom is employed by D & B Associates. Out of town guests attending the ceremony were Col. and Mrs. Edwin Jane, Mrs. Robert Courtney, Mrs. W. F. Bartlett, Mr. and Mrs. Preston Perilloux, Mr. and Mrs. Robert O'Connor, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Trahan, Mr. and Mrs. Pedar Bakken, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McAuley, all of New Orleans, LA; Mrs. George Hammett, Miss Jo Ann Hammett, and Mr. and Mrs. Hilbert Hoekstra of Madison, Illinois; Mr. Robert Boyd, Vicksburg, MS; Mrs. Edgar Poe, Fairmont, WV; Miss Robbie Norville, Miss Dea Calmers, and Scott Bryan of Norfolk, VA and Kenneth Bleck of Centerville, VA.

Marriage lifestyles changing

"Do you, Diane, promise to love, honor, and let Jim watch football on Saturday afternoons?"

Couples may not be making this kind of vow at the altar but they are stipulating conditions and spelling out rights and privileges for themselves, in that newly revived tradition, the marriage contract.

Where marriage contracts of other times were usually concerned with financial arrangements, today's contract is most apt to specify activities and functions of each mate.

One California couple, for instance, actually did draw up a contract specifying, among other things, that the husband's Saturday afternoons of watching football on TV would not be interfered with.

The marriage contract, which is usually renegotiable, is one manifestation of the growing changes in attitudes toward marriage.

With an estimated 40 percent of wives continuing to work, the old concept of husbands earning a living and wives taking care of the home is rapidly eroding. Experts are recommending that premarital agreements regarding the division of labor be made by engaged couples. They point out that employed wives suffer from an inequality of work time, when they are expected to handle all the domestic chores while holding down a job as well.

Increasing awareness of the woman's work load has made men more receptive to helping with domestic chores, research indicates. A few couples have even gone so far as to switch roles for a period of time, either as an experiment or out of expediency. A practical, "unromantic" view of marriage today is evidenced by the growing number of marriage workshops and pre-marriage counseling groups.

Wedding expenses

The bride's family is entirely responsible for the wedding ceremony and usually the cost of the reception as well. However, in some cases, the groom's family may offer to share in the cost of the wedding reception. Following is a list of wedding costs as they are traditionally divided:

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard J. Piazza of Bay St. Louis, announce the engagement of their daughter, Lisa Mona, to George Edward Casey, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Casey Sr., Long Beach.

The wedding will be solemnized at 1 p.m. Saturday, June 12, in St. Henry's Chapel.

The bride-elect, a member of the 1976 Bay Senior High School graduating class, is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Coleman, Bay St. Louis, and Mrs. Mable Piazza, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and the late Pasquale Piazza.

The prospective groom, a 1969 graduate of Long Beach High School, attended Jefferson Davis Junior College and is presently co-manager of A&P Food Store in Bay St. Louis. His grandparents are Mrs. Ella Casey, Gulfport, and the late Joseph Casey and the late Mr. and Mrs. John Moody, Carnes, Miss.

'Honeymoon'

Throughout Europe in the Middle Ages, mead, a fermented drink made partially of malt and honey was imbibed. On the occasion of a wedding, mead was drunk for a full-moon's time, that is, for a month after the actual ceremony. This time was then called the "honeymoon".

Economical gift-giving

You've been invited to a kitchen shower for a bride-to-be and you don't know what to bring as a gift. The bride has been living in her own apartment and she has a set of basic cooking utensils, dishes, pots and pans. The china pattern she has selected is simply beyond your budget, but you still want to get her a nice gift that she and her groom will appreciate.

Why not consider giving a wok, a crepe pan, a slow cooker or a high-dome clay pot as a kitchen gift. Most of these items are priced under $20.

A crepe pan is an inverted convex frying pan used for making delicate, thin pancakes that can be filled with anything from beef stew to ice cream. The convex top of the pan is dipped into the pancake batter until a thin coat covers the pan. The batter cooks quickly over a gas or electric stove without being turned. The crepe is then turned onto a plate to be filled with a delicious concoction. Several recipe books are available with instructions on making and filling the crepes.

A wok is a concave Oriental stir-fry pan used for cooking fresh vegetables and meat. The ingredients are cooked quickly to retain natural flavors, moisture and vitamins. Many woks come with a set of utensils used for stir-fry cooking, and recipe books are available on wok cooking.

How often have you roasted a chicken or a piece of beef only to have it come out dry and over-cooked? Using a high-dome clay roasting pan will eliminate that problem. The dome cover of the clay pot allows the cook to cover the chicken or roast so that it cooks in its own juices and moisture is retained. Potatoes, carrots and other vegetables can be added to the roast and cooked with it. Slow cookers are also ceramic pots with a built-in electric heating element. Like the clay roasting pan, they allow meat and vegetables to cook slowly in juices or gravy.

Careful planning dispels 'wedding bell blues'

BY YVONNE SALLINGER
(Special to the Echo)

So, you are planning a wedding. Congratulations bride-to-be! Reassurances to you, mother, that the days ahead with seemingly monumental tasks can also be very happy ones.

There will be much decision making and planning to be done. The brides' magazines, etiquette books, and wedding planning guides all give guidelines on what is to be done and when. Remember that these are guidelines but certain things can be taken care of earlier than recommended. For example, invitations should be ordered as soon as guest lists are approximated. With today's mails, and depending on the season, it can take much longer than anticipated for invitations to arrive, especially if copper plate engraving is desired.

The bride will find herself the center of attention and the recipient of well-intended advice from loving relatives and friends. Accept it graciously, but keep in mind that it is your wedding, and it should be done to your taste and the means of your parents.

As soon as possible, a decision should be made as to the type of wedding that will take place; large or small, how much that can be spent, where it will take place, formal or informal, etc.

Today's brides know what they want and generally are very practical. In years past it was felt that rigid rules had to be followed, however, brides today do not feel that way...and that is the way it should be since it is their wedding.

Certain traditions can be, and are, followed. But there has been a change. The wedding ceremony can have a more personal meaning to the young couple, as in many churches they can plan a part of their ceremony, make up their own vows, or select appropriate readings, etc. and music. They can speak to the priest or minister about this when they contact him soon after the date has been set.

Many brides carefully select gowns for themselves and their attendants which can be sewn at home or by a dressmaker, and selections of accessories are often made with the thought in mind for use again after the wedding. After all, it can be quite expensive to serve as a bridesmaid, no matter how great the honor. If a bride elects to purchase her dress, and makes a selection for her bridesmaids, it should be done eight to 10 weeks prior to the wedding. Begin early! You can have a lovely and beautiful wedding with careful planning and stay within your budget.

There is professional and good service available locally and on the Coast. There are able photographers, talented musicians, capable caterers, florists with beautiful and varied wedding equipment, tuxedo service, 24 hour invitation printing service, gift shops where selections of china, crystal and silver patterns can be made, and bridal items can be purchased, jewelry stores which have an assortment of engagement rings and wedding bands, and persons to provide the wedding cake.

A wedding consultant will know where the above are available, can help with the planning, and when the great day arrives, see to it that all of the carefully made plans are carried out at the wedding and reception according to the wishes of the bride and her family, leaving them free to enjoy the happy occasion without worry over details.

Of course, there may be some frantic moments which cause panic at the time, but will bring laughter later.

Some fathers have been known, after wading knee-deep through gift wrap and enough yardage of ribbon to wrap a football field, to ask their daughters if they would like to elope for a thousand dollars or more. But the same fathers, on the wedding day, beam with pride during the ceremony and long afterwards.

Honeymoon wardrobe tips

Where are you going for your honeymoon? Will you go to Mexico, Hawaii, the Caribbean? How about a honeymoon in Europe or the Orient? Or will you ski down the slopes of the Rocky Mountains? Wherever you go, you will have to plan your wardrobe according to the lifestyle and the weather of the area you visit.

Dude ranches located in the Southwestern U.S. are informal resorts for honeymoons. The emphasis is on Western wear with jeans and light shirts, great clothes for daytime. In the evenings, you will need a sweater or jacket since the desert cools down at night.

If you are taking a cruise through the Caribbean, or along the coast of Mexico, you will be expected to dress for dinner at least one evening during the voyage.

Women usually wear long dresses and men wear suits for the traditional "Captain's Dinner" which is included on most cruise ships. Some cruises offer costume parties and other events where special clothes are required. Check with the cruise ship line and your travel agent for the entertainment programs offered aboard the ship.

Wherever you go, to a resort or a large city, it is advisable to take along one dressy outfit. This can be a long dress or skirt for the bride and a suit for the groom. Many better restaurants located throughout the world prefer their patrons to "dress" for dinner.

While tropical islands and Latin American countries provide a romantic background for newly-weds, many honeymooners prefer to visit big cities. If you are traveling in North America during the summer months, you should be prepared for warm weather and occasional rain in many areas.

And, if you journey south of the Equator, remember that the seasons are reversed "down under." This means that you will encounter cool weather in Australia and New Zealand from June to September and warm summer days from December to March.

MR. AND MRS. PETER JOSEPH DAHN

Dahn-Perniciaro

Miss Katherine Perniciaro, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe V. Perniciaro, Bay St. Louis, became the bride of Peter Joseph Dahn, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Dahn, Waveland, in an afternoon ceremony April 3 at Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church.

Father Michael Tracey performed the double ring ceremony. Music was provided by Mrs. John McKenna, organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white satin gown with wide tulle sleeves trimmed in lace. She wore a Spanish mantilla as her veil and carried a bouquet of pastel-colored daisies.

Andrea Ring of New Orleans, La. attended the bride as matron of honor wearing a shrimp-colored full length gown trimmed in off-white lace.

Brian Wagner of New Orleans served as best man and ushers were Ed Perniciaro, Bay St. Louis, brother of the bride and Nick Dahn, Waveland, brother of the groom.
